Greetings! We are finishing our 15th year of the AIIP program at Oklahoma State University. It was an unbelievable year for our AIIP summer enrichment fellows – past and present. The 2011 summer program was very successful and we graduated another Native student with her Ph.D. this year. We also graduated a record number of former AIIP summer enrichment students with their master’s and bachelor’s degrees in 2012. You can read more about all of our current and former students on pp. 6-12.

As always, I would like to extend special thanks to Dr. Peter Sherwood (Dean of the College of Arts & Sciences) and department head, Dr. Larry Mullins, for their support. We also have an outstanding steering committee in the department and a very active advisory board made up of professionals throughout the state. Thanks also to all our psychology faculty members and to our external evaluators, Dr.’s Joe and Carol Conner, who give us unparalleled guidance for improving the AIIP experience for our students.

We look forward to another productive summer program. The application pool was very competitive this year and we had a record number of highly qualified applicants.

Regards,

John Chaney, Ph.D.

Joanna Shadlow, PhD

Dr. Joanna Shadlow is currently an Applied Assistant Professor in the Psychology Department at the University of Tulsa. In addition, she provides five hours per week of clinic based treatment and assessment to children, adolescents, and young adults with behavioral, emotional, and social problems at the Indian Health Care Resource Center in Tulsa, Oklahoma. Dr. Shadlow received her Bachelor of Science degree from Oklahoma State University in 2001 and graduated with a Ph.D. in Clinical Child Psychology and a Master of Art degree in Indigenous Nations Studies from the University of Kansas in 2007. She completed her Clinical Internship at the UAMS Child Study Center in Little Rock, Arkansas. In 2011, she won the Rising Star Award from the College of Human Sciences at Oklahoma State University.

Dr. Shadlow’s current research projects include assessing effectiveness of a parenting intervention for female victims of intimate partner violence with the Domestic Violence Intervention Services of Tulsa and a multimodal assessment of pain processing in Native Americans using subjective, behavioral, and electrophysiological outcomes with Dr. James Rhudy at the University of Tulsa.

Dr. Shadlow was a co-investigator on a Psi Chi Faculty Research Advisor Grant focused on Native American pain processing in 2010 and on a United Methodist Health ministry Fund focused on improving Native American youth oral health behaviors in 2006. Dr. Shadlow has a number of published articles and book chapters regarding cultural differences in parenting styles, mothering in an abusive environment, and prevention of disease and injury in pediatric psychology. Her manuscripts in preparation address hope in Native American children and adolescents and adaptive styles of African American, Native American, and European American children. She has also presented numerous posters and papers on a number of topics throughout the United States, including childhood trauma and mental health, suicide prevention for Native American Youth, hope in Native American children, Native American acculturation, and cultural differences in anxiety and socialization.
Victoria O’Keefe Receives a Ford Foundation Predoctoral Fellowship

Victoria O’Keefe (Seminole/Cherokee), a 2009 American Indian Into Psychology (AIIP) Summer scholar and first year Clinical graduate student in the Psychology Department, has received a Pre doctoral fellowship from the Ford Foundation to conduct research on American Indian/Alaska Native suicide risk and resiliency. There is a need for, “more Native American professionals in order to develop a psychology that makes sense to the Native American community.” This statement was written by Eduardo Duran, a well-known Clinical Psychologist, who works with American Indian/Alaska Native (AI/AN) communities. Victoria is determined to bridge the tremendous gap in suicide research among AI/AN populations. Suicide continues to devastate AI/AN communities throughout the United States and her research will aid in understanding why this health disparity persists and how it can be minimized.

In the research, Victoria and her faculty mentor Dr. Ricki Wingate are investigating psychological theories of suicide that have been established in majority populations to see if these theories hold true for, and are relevant to, AI/AN populations. Also, they are focusing on strengths that protect AI/AN against suicidal behavior, as the majority of existing literature focuses on solely risk factors for suicide.

The Ford Foundation fellowship provides a $20,000 annual stipend that can be used for up to three years of graduate study to support research leading to a doctoral degree and is intended for students who are in the early stages of their graduate study.

Sean Seabridge Named 2012 Outstanding Psychology Senior

Sean Seabridge (Osage) a 2010 American Indian Into Psychology Summer Fellow was named top senior in the Psychology Department. He is the son of Dirk and Kathy Seabridge and graduated from Blackwell High School. Sean graduated with honors in May with a Bachelor of Arts in Psychology. For the past two years he has worked with Dr. Maureen Sullivan in the Child Behavior Lab conducting research with children and adolescents. He has been an active part of the American Indians into Psychology program for 2 years under the direction of Dr. John Chaney. He is a member of Phi Kappa Phi National Honor Society, Psi Chi National Honor Society, and OSU Psychology Club.

Sean will continue his graduate education at Oklahoma State University, where he has been accepted into the Clinical Psychology doctoral program and is very excited to continue work with Dr. Maureen Sullivan.

Our research focuses on anxiety, depression, psychophysiology, interpersonal dysfunction and cognition.

Sade Horsechief: My name is Sade’ HorseChief. I am Pawnee and Cherokee from Muskogee, Oklahoma. I am currently a junior at Oklahoma State University. After graduating, I will be applying to sports psychology programs. I am interested in sports motivational research. My long-term goal is to become a sports psychologist of a professional team.

Sean Seabridge: My name is Sean Seabridge and I am a member of the Osage tribe. I recently graduated in May. At present, I am working with Dr. Maureen Sullivan. For my senior honors thesis, I examined the link between parenting discipline styles and child problem behaviors in a rural population. I have been admitted into the Clinical Psychology Ph.D. program at Oklahoma State and look forward to beginning graduate school this fall. I am excited to continue working with Dr. Sullivan as my mentor.

Jenifer VanSchuyver: Hi my name if Jenifer Van Schuyver and I am Citizen Band Potawatomi. I recently finished up my last year at Oklahoma State University after pursuing a degree in Psychology and Liberal Studies. I’ve been conducting research for the past year at OU with Dr. Richard Drass and Dr. Susan Vehik, with the anthropology department, under the guidance of my OSU mentors Dr. Stephen Perkins, anthropology, and Dr. John Chaney, psychology. After graduation I plan to pursue a Ph.D. in psychology after taking off for a few years and joining Americorp.

Graduate Fellow

Sarah Rhoades-Kerswill: (Kiowa) is currently a third year graduate student in the Clinical Psychology Ph.D. program and her research advisor is LaRicka R. Wingate, Ph.D. Sarah’s research interests include the examination of the interpersonal-psychological theory of suicidal behavior within American Indian populations. She is also interested in risk and resiliency factors for suicidal behavior in minority populations.
AIIP Undergraduate Assistant

Jobe Shuart, My name is Jobe Shuart and I am a member of the Potawatomi tribe. I am originally from Ponca City Oklahoma, and a junior here at Oklahoma State, pursuing a degree in Psychology. I was in the 2011 AIIP Summer enrichment Program. After completing an associates degree in Behavioral Science at Northern Oklahoma College, Tonkawa, I transferred to OSU. Oklahoma State has offered me many opportunities to work with professors and gain perspective on various specializations in the field of Psychology. OSU is an excellent place to learn and get prepared for a career in a Psychology related field.
